

“Celebrating
Disciples,
Being Disciples”

A RETREAT DAY FOR LAY LEADERS

AT THE CHURCH OF ST. CATHARINE, HOLMDEL

Discipleship is a frequent theme in official ecclesial writing today. In our roles as lay ministry leaders, who are the disciples we invite our communities to celebrate? In our own lives, who are the disciples we personally see as models? An exploration of five disciples who knew Jesus personally, of disciples you personally have long revered, and of some modern disciples, religious and secular. A rhythm of presentations, shared reflection and silence is planned.

Zeni Fox, PhD, has lived her life as a lay woman: daughter, sister, niece, aunt, friend, colleague and now great-aunt. She has served in ministry in a Catholic school, a parish, a diocesan office, an entrepreneurial training center, and on the faculty of Fordham and at Immaculate Conception Seminary as a professor and the Director of Lay Ministry. New Ecclesial Ministry: Lay Professionals Serving the Church explored this new phenomenon, from both a theological and sociological perspective; Called and Chosen: Toward a Spirituality for Lay Leaders, edited with Sr. Regina Bechtle, provides a handbook for those in Catholic institutional ministries. She presently offers spiritual direction, serves as a member of the Sponsor for Ascension, the largest Catholic health care system, serves on various committees, and lectures occasionally. These varied ministries have provided a rich experience of our Church and its diverse members, its many disciples.
